

NUMEROLOGY

Jain Sadhvi Dr. Shiv Pragya

What is numerology?

Everything known to human being has an energy vibration and so do the numbers. In fact, every number (and letter) has its own unique and remarkable vibration that contributes and impacts a person's life. Hence, numerology is the study of the relationship that numbers and letters have with our character and life. It is an old mystical science that can help to understand a person better and make predictions in a scientific way.

From the spiritual point of view, one may think of the soul, which is inside the physical body, evolving through the life experiences the person would have during the life time. Over the span of this life, there are specific areas of development one's spirit has decided to dominate and specific open doors it might want to exploit on the course of the journey. In order to do this, there are specific character attributes and life conditions it requires to accomplish its objectives – the details of which can be found in one's numbers. In other words, one's numerology profile reveals the outline of what one's soul or krama has pre-decided to achieve in this life.

One of the advantages of numerology is that it can reveal one's fate and purpose in life and the life lessons one would face along the way. Numerology is far beyond foreseeing the future or picking the ideal partner, date, or name. It's the bridge between who the person currently is and who the person can possibly become. One may think it like a ladder that empowers one to carry on with one's best life and provides avenues to improve it further.

The history of Numerology

All through mankind's set of experiences and across societies, people have needed responses to what the future holds and have searched for help when making decisions. Regardless of whether these answers are sought through palmistry, astrology, tarot, or consultation with a mystic, seeking foreknowledge has been a constant human need.

Numerology has been present in my social orders or cultures. By definition, numerology is the study of the connection between numbers and occasions and how this relationship influences one's life. Through numerology, one may pick up understanding into one's character and hidden skills, find out about the best ideal opportunity for relationships, discover when your wellbeing may be a worry, or even sort out the correct time for a career change.

Some people may view this link between numbers and events as circumstantial or even mysterious. However, other school of thought is that numerology does attribute something besides reality. Despite the fact that the word numerology didn't show up in the English language until the early 20th century, the ideas of numerology have been around for centuries.

Before the advancement of number systems, numbers were written alphabetically. In ancient times, when the Greeks used small stones for learning mathematics and geometry, each letter was given a numeric value. The letter values in a word were then added to result in a single number; a practice called isopsephy. Ancient users of isopsephy believed that words and phrases that shared the same number of values were connected to God. Apart from making religious or mysterious associations, the practice was likewise used to anticipate victors in physical battles—the fighter whose name had most prominent mathematical worth was relied upon to be stronger. This same technique was later used with the Hebrew alphabet (gematria) and the Arabic alphabet (Abjad numerals). From Medieval times to the Renaissance, a gematria for the Latin alphabet saw wide application. From the Middle Ages to the revival, the gematria of the Latin alphabet saw widespread use.

Different cultures and belief systems practice various types of numerology. The following gives you the history of numerology and examines some of the most common forms being used today.

Pythagorean Numerology

Based on the work of the famous sixth-century BCE The Greek mathematician and geometer Pythagoras, Pythagorean numerology is one of the most popular form of numerology.

Pythagoras regarded numbers as the best accomplishment of Creation, which formed the basis for everyone and everything; this was evident in his two primary lessons, The Science of Numbers and Theory of Magnitude (better known today as arithmetic and music). Each item has a vibration; a higher vibration gives more positive energy, while a lower vibration demonstrates negative energy. Pythagoras believed numbers are the measure of that energy, with numbers 1 through 9 symbolizing the nine stages of human life.

From that point forward, the Pythagorean Science of Numbers has continued to evolve and has built the spiritual foundation of many secret societies, for example, The Rosicrucians, Masons, Anthroposophists, and The Theosophical Society— as well as provide the foundation for the development of modern numerology in the early twentieth century.

Pythagorean numerology examines an individual's full birth name and date of birth. The full birth name is said to give understanding into what is most important to an individual and in terms of motivation, skills, natural talents, personality, heart desires, and much more. The birth date uncovers lifestyles (such as times of financial success, health, or love) and components of timing (such as when to make a career change, enter or leave a relationship, go back to school, or pursue an opportunity).

Chaldean Numerology

Originating in Babylonia, Chaldean numerology (sometimes called mystic numerology) is an older system than Pythagorean numerology. While some students of numerology consider Chaldean slightly more accurate than Pythagorean, it's less popular because of its fairly high difficulty level in arithmetic.

Chaldean numerology is based on sounds and vibrations. The energies represented in the numbers were believed to correspond to planets and other heavenly bodies, in addition to the energies that create life. The individuals who practice Chaldean numerology believe that the system carries spiritual and mystical messages.

In Pythagorean numerology, the letter-number correspondence follows a simple pattern; however, as one can see in the below table, the correspondence in Chaldean isn't systematic, requiring memorization of values. Additionally, the Chaldean approach assigns only the values 1 through 8 to letters, reserving nine as "holy." However, if the sum resolves to a 9, the value is retained.

Chaldean Letter-to-Number Table

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
A	B	C	D	E	U	O	F
I	K	G	M	H	V	Z	P
J	R	L	T	N	W
Q		S		X
Y

Another differentiator is that in Chaldean, the name one uses for numerology analysis is the one the person is most known by, rather than by actual full birth name. For example, the famous cricket player "Sachin" Tendulkar would be "Sachin" to the Chaldean school but "Sachin Tendulkar" to the Pythagoreans.

Kabbalah Numerology

Despite the fact that it's not a religion, sect, or cult, Kabbalah is a mystical way of approaching life and the universe that explores the relationship between the mysterious Ein Sol (God) and the finite universe. Generally, Kabbalah is an attempt to connect the physical and supernatural domains. The discipline provides many tools to help its practitioners attempt to understand the relationship between the finite and infinite—including numerology.

Kabbalah numerology actually doesn't utilize numbers at all but rather uses a person's name as it's expressed in the Hebrew alphabet. Analysis of the name and its constituent sounds tells how one's name affects one's actions, thoughts, and feelings.

Chinese Numerology

The Chinese have employed numerology for more than 4,000 years. Chinese numerology varies widely from other forms of practice in that it assumes that numbers are inherently either lucky (good) or unlucky (evil). Luck plays an important role in Eastern culture and is intertwined with the concept of fate; therefore, if someone is lucky, it's believed that it was the person's destiny. In Chinese numerology, meanings are derived by the sound of the number when said aloud. If a number sounds like a word that is considered unlucky, the number is also considered unlucky. For example, in the Chinese language, the word for "one" sounds like the word for “honor”; the number 1 represents an ability to break down barriers while pursuing higher quests. On the other hand, the word for “four” sounds like the word for “death”; the number 4 indicates great misfortune and is avoided at all costs by people who practice Chinese numerology.

The Chinese also believe in mystical number combinations and relationships. For example, it is believed that the 12 vessels which circulate blood and air throughout the body correspond with the 12 rivers flowing toward the Central Kingdom. Likewise, the 365 parts of the body used in locating acupuncture points are connected with the 365 days in a year. The simplest method of Chinese numerology is the Lo Shu Square or Grid. It is based on the story of the tortoise with nine perfect squares on its shell, as seen by Emperor Yu on the banks of the Luo River. The original Lo Shu Square is also known as the “Magic Square” because the numbers in the square add to 15 when added horizontally, vertically, or diagonally. In the following grid, notice that the even numbers are in the corners and the odd numbers form a cross in the centre vertical and horizontal rows.

Twentieth-Century Numerologists

At the turn of the last century, numerology, as we know it today, was developed. A series of researchers and writers added their contributions to the field over the past 100 years. Here are some of the most influential of them.

Mrs. L. Dow Balliett became the authority of the modern method of relating names, numbers, and vibrations. She is credited with giving the world a spiritual and pragmatic approach to applying numerical values to people's character. The author of many books, including The Philosophy of Numbers: Their Tone and Colours, Mrs. Balliett was a noted teacher of Pythagorean methods. An ardent student of religion and philosophy, her mission in life was to enlighten others and help people view themselves as spiritual beings. She was a trendsetter and ahead of her time, and a frequent presenter in the New Age Thought Movement.

Dr. Julia Seton was a student of Mrs. L. Dow Balliett and is credited with modernizing the Science of Numbers. In fact, in 1907, she coined the term numerology. Dr. Seton travelled to South Africa, Australia, and Hawaii to present her theories of the hidden truths in symbols, scrolls, and numbers.

Dr. Juno Jordan was the daughter of Dr. Julia Seton and carried on the family tradition of numerology. A dentist by trade, Dr. Jordan banded together with a group of like-minded, forward-thinking ladies to form the California Institute of Numerical Research. For the next 25 years, they studied every aspect of the numbers and their meanings as related to names.

Dr. Helena Davis is credited with popularizing numerology from the 1950s through the 1990s. The assistant pastor to the prolific metaphysical speaker and author Dr. Joseph Murphy, Dr. Davis was also a numerologist to the stars.

What can numerology be used for?

Numerology can be used for many things, but here are some of its most common uses:

1. Greater awareness and self-comprehension
2. Forecasting what's to come
3. Planning significant life events
4. Predicting cycles and patterns
5. Choosing a suitable career
6. Assessing the compatibility of relationships
7. Changing a name for marriage (or different purposes)

8. Choosing a business name (item name, brand name, book title so forth ...)
9. Naming a child
10. Assessing the strength of an address, property, or home
11. Choosing a wedding date
12. Naming a pet

How to use numerology

Alongside any form of prediction, numerology can be best utilized as a manual to complement one's life. Joined with instinct, sound judgment, and the regular presence of mind, numerology should be utilized as a tool to assist one's with exploring your life better.

One doesn't need to have to be proficient in mathematics to learn numerology, but needs simple skills of addition and subtraction. All one requires is a calculator, some paper, and a pen.

Numerology rule of thumb

In numerology, a common rule of thumb is that one should continue to add numbers together until one reaches to a single digit number between one and nine.

For example: 9241 would be $9+2+4+1 = 16 = 7$

However, this rule doesn't apply in case a number is 11, 22, or 33.

Importance of number 9

Number 9 is regarded as absolute, which has the presence of all qualities and elements. There is one great example to understand this concept by doing analysis on various “Yuga.”

- Kali Yuga’ time period = 4,32,000 years = $4 + 3 + 2 = 9$
- Dvapara Yuga’ time period = 8,64,000 years = $8 + 6 + 4 = 18 = 9$
- Treta Yuga’s time period = 12,96,000 years = $1 + 2 + 9 + 6 = 18 = 9$
- Satya Yuga’s time period = 17,28,000 years = $1 + 7 + 2 + 8 = 18 = 9$

Personality number

In numerology, a personality number is defined as the addition of days in one’s date of birth. For example, if someone’s date of birth is 09-12-1991, then the personality number is calculated as $0 + 9 = 9$, 9 is the personality number of that person. There is nine personality number from 1 to 9, and each has its own meaning and representation. Also, each number denotes a corresponding “Graha” [5] and qualities.

1. Number 1 corresponds to “Surya Graha.” One who has 1 as a personality number would have qualities of a king. The person would be egoistic with great leadership skills along with traces of dictatorship. The person would have his own standing in any group and may influence the group to get things done. In case anyone challenges him, the person may feel agitated and will certainly push back. On the other hand, people with personality number 1 take care of their people, have kindness in their hearts along with a high sense of being nationalist and spiritual. These people strive to make their own identity while mostly focusing and living the present. The drive to live a luxurious life pushes them forward to go higher in life. They don't get satisfied easily and don't like to work for anyone. In a way, they like to build their own lives in pursuit of excellence. Many famous personalities with 1 as personality number are former Prime Minister of India, Indira Gandhi, great freedom fighter, Bhagat Singh, Asia's richest man, Mukesh Ambani, and famous industrialist Ratan Tata.
2. Number 2 represents “Chandra Graha.” People who have this personality number are usually very emotional, for example, a mother for her child. These people have traits of a queen, such as love, affection, sympathy, and compassion. They are soft-hearted and melt with anyone's kind words. They have strong intuition power and are very sensitive. From a decision-making point of view, they usually dependant on other's advice and influence and don't have their own opinions. They are romantic and imaginative. They can also be introverts. Some of the famous personalities with 2 personality numbers are Mahatma Gandhi, Amitabh Bachchan, and Osho.

3. Number 3 denotes “ Brihaspati Graha.” These people have traits of a Guru. Being in the abundance of knowledge, they strive to learn more and teach more. They don’t leave any stone to unturn to learn something new at any age and time of their life. They advise others on good and bad. They choose wisdom over wealth. Neither do they want anyone’s favour nor restrictions. They would prefer a position of dominance and would have great attractive power as well. They are perfectionists and socialist. Personalities such as Abraham Lincoln, Kareena Kapoor, and Charles Darwin have 3 as personality number.
4. “Rahu Graha” is represented by number 4. These people are rich in brainpower and are great planners. Rahu is also seen as Dragon’s head, which means the person would have only head but nothing beneath it, meaning that person would only think from his head and won’t have any emotions while making the decisions. In a way, this helps to become meticulous planners. They can run organizations and sit in managerial positions easily. They may be repellent in nature and may not accept the social rules of the society but make their own rules. Being hardworking as nature, they can sum up a lot of money. They grow while away from home and may disconnect from their closed ones. Home minister Amit Shah, Former US President Barack Obama, and famous singer Kishor Kumar are this personality number.

5. “Budha Graha” is denoted by number 5. These people live a life of a prince. They feel young and live from a young heart. Being intelligent and knowledgeable about mathematics, they know how to business. They get attracted to the opposite sex very easily. They can balance their emotional and mental powers. They are also of satisfying nature and get along with everyone. They are difficult to read, usually happy go kind, and usually reluctant. They love to travel and learn. These people get bored easily and explore the flexible lifestyle. They don't have enemies. Famous actors Aamir Khan, Prince Charles, and Karan Johar are some of the examples of this personality number.

6. Number 6 represents “ Shukra Graha.” People corresponding to his number put a lot of emphasis on physical appearance and outlook. They like to get well dressed, getting ready, and apply other methods to look great. Other people may get attracted to them easily. They also get attracted to the opposite sex easily. They help others but are also straight forward. Though they give a lot of focus on self-emphasis, they do also care about other's opinions. They spend their wisdom on maternal accomplishments and joys. Actors such as Ranveer Singh and Alia Bhatt have personality number 6.

7. Number 7 represents “Ketu Graha.” These people have less mental power and obey others easily as they are called Dragon Tail. They are usually driven by emotions and are good for friendship as they never betray, though they themselves might get betrayed. Though they take the decision from the only heart, they still go to the depth of the things. They are natural researchers and will excel at this career option. They are usually introvert but have an inclination towards science. They may get hurt very easily and also don’t know to spend their money. Nike Jones and Former Prime Minister Atal Bihari Vajpayee are examples of this personality number.
8. “Shani Graha” is represented by number 8. These people are driven by respect for the law. They don’t let unlawful activities happen and may even die to hold their position protecting the law. They tend to serve others and society. Others can influence them to get things done. They don’t fear hard work and can achieve anything by their hard work. Being money minded, they can be good bankers and investors. They believe in play big or go home and are usually very responsible. They can sustain a rough life and can get adjusted in any environment. Mother Teresa, Prime Minister Narendra Modi, and William Shakespeare are some of the famous personalities with this personality number.
9. “Mangala Graha” is denoted by number 9. These people are usually aggressive in nature and may have a short temper. They are good social workers and usually all-rounder. They usually give a higher preference to society over the family. They can be angered very easily and may be very adamant even though when they are losing. They live in the present and can be a good commander in chief. They are never tired of working and never give up. Their starting life may not be very lucrative, but the later part of life is very nice. They make their own life and don't get settled down easily.

Destiny Number

Destiny Number is calculated by adding all of the numbers in the date of birth together. There are two ways to calculate this; however, the most commonly used method is "adding across."

1st Method: Adding across

This is how to calculate a Destiny Number by adding across:

Step 1: Add together all of the numbers in one's birth date by adding them across.

Make sure to write the full birth year – for example, 1969 rather than just 69.

Let's use the birth date October 11, 1969 (10–11–1969), as an example:

$$1+0+1+1+1+9+6+9 = 28 = 2+8 = 10 = 1+0 = 1$$

Step 2: Continue adding any double-digit numbers together until you get a single-digit Destiny Number between 1 and 9 unless it totals 11, 22, or 33, which then becomes an 11/2, 22/4, or 33/6.

$$2+8 = 10$$

$$1+0 = 1 \text{ Destiny Number}$$

Now, let's see what happens when we get a total of 33, as with birth date January 8, 1968 (1-8-1968)

$$1+8+1+9+6+8 = 33 \text{ Destiny Number}$$

We do not add 11, 22, or 33 together as these combinations have their own meanings.

2nd method

In this method, we sum up the day, month, and year as step 1, and in step 2, we conclude to a single digit.

Step 1: Let's use the birth date December 11, 1969 (12-11-1969), as an example:

$$12 + 11 + 1969 = 1992$$

Step 2: Continue adding any double-digit numbers together until you get a single-digit Destiny Number between 1 and 9.

1992 = 21

2+1 = 3 Destiny Number

1. People with destiny number 1 usually depend upon others to live their lives, and while heading in life, they learn to start leading. They are ambitious, progressive, determined, and stubborn. Due to their capability to get things done, they achieve new heights of success. Sometimes, others may take undue benefit of these people, and even knowing about it, they bear it. These people are poised to succeed in politics. Even though these people may excel at anything they do but still a few professions may be prioritized for selection, such as independent business contractor, engineer, doctor, government job, pharmaceutical related business, forest officials, work related to metal, bullion, wood, wool, furniture, jewellery, and firearms. The person may also become a politician or management executive.
2. Person corresponding to destiny number 2 usually perform tasks peacefully and is usually active towards other's needs. One would be good at making friends and also proves out to be a good friend. The person is a good communicator of feelings. One would have a tendency to be a partner rather than a leader. The person may also prefer to stay in a better position with less reputation as compared to a lower position with better prestige. These people may excel at many careers such as Leadership roles, painter, work related to wheat, pearl, liquid, milk, water, clothe, rice, cow, fish, and sugar. The person may also look at careers such as nursing, music, coral dealers, groceries, naval officers, water board officials, dealers in perfumes, instruments, public relations, advertising, sailors, and dairy products.

3. Destiny number 3 denotes people with imagination power. They are also thought leaders, but they are less of an executioner. They like to feel proud while sharing knowledge with others. They may be good teachers. Sometimes, even though they might have a great interest in a project, they may not be able to conclude it. These people may have a successful career in fields such as consultancy, ambassador, philosopher, police, salesman, judge, banker, professor, writer, physician, philanthropist, money exchanger, priest, administrator, revenue officials, treasury controllers, and dealers in turmeric.
4. People with destiny number 4 are practical and reliable. They really work hard and have high self-esteem. In case they realize that they are not going in the right direction, they quickly change the course of their journey. They are detail-oriented and like to explore complicated projects as they are never satisfied with easy work. They have strong opinions about their likes and dislikes. Also, they are very straight forward and sometimes they may get too stubborn in spite of crossing the line. They don't believe in the lottery and luck but hard work. These people may become good scientists, pilots, artists, property dealers, builders, contractors, researchers, hunters, politicians, craftsmen, druggist, and metaphysicians.

5. Destiny number 5 denotes people who are usually multitaskers. They have a high capacity for thinking and like to travel a lot. They are usually focused and eventually successful too. They are always young at heart and usually romantic. They want to do something different from their family business. They are difficult to confine and can get bored easily. With a fast-thinking process, they took decisions at lightning speed. Multitasking may also lead to stress and corresponding complications. These people may have a great career in fields related to accountancy, banking, auditor, insurance, tourism, stationery, librarian, translator, media, journalist, educationalist, medical expert, publishers, orators, travellers, post office officials, textile dealer, import-export trader, and air stewardess.

6. People with destiny number 6 usually respect and support others. They can sacrifice themselves for others. As they take on others' problems often, this may cause burnout. They are unbiased decision-makers. They may sometimes use other people to get things done even though they have to lie. These people may excel at many career options such as beautician, architect, paramedical, pathology, diamond trader, trader of dairy products, painter, artist, automobile dealer, musicians, dancer, fashion designer, butlers, jaggery dealers, film industry officials, aerated soft drink manufacturers, water supply officials, musical instruments dealers, and naval officials.

7. Destiny number 7 indicates disappointment. They may get betrayed in the matters of love, health, and family. They take a long time to learn new things and like to do unusual projects. They are lone wolves and have a limited social circle. They can be difficult to understand and open up and but when they do open up, they will be like an open book. They may get too disappointed with life, leading to negative introspection and even getting suicidal thoughts. As life proceeds, they start to get more incline towards spirituality. These people would become great physic healers, spiritual teachers, import-export dealers, publishers, travellers, engineers, scientists, doctors, and pets dealer.

8. People with destiny number 8 are bold thinkers but at that same time grounded as well. They have good character and have a good capacity to understand others well as well. Once they decide something, they do everything they can to achieve that. They keep their word. They don't think much about maternal pleasures. They may ignore health while pursuing their goals. Also, they may have revenge feelings at times. These people would make an excellent career in several fields such as grain dealers, shoe dealers, sanitary, plumbing, granite dealer, agriculturists, property dealer, mine ores dealers, oil dealers, technicians, orthopaedic, insurance, transporter, manager, and sportsman.

9. Destiny number 9 indicates the feeling of sacrifice. People with this destiny number may let go more than they will ever get, and others may misuse it. They are romantic but usually don't get true love and may feel disappointed about this. They are good writers. These people think a lot of mankind even more than themselves. These people would become excellent defence officials, crime department officials, police officials, fire dealers, metal dealers, engineers, cooks, gas dealers, surgeon, warriors, dentist, steel dealer, druggist, chemist, property dealer, lawyer, and soldier.
10. People with destiny number 11 are usually either at the top or at the bottom. They usually take care of others and are successful in projects with other's support. They have intuition power and can achieve wonders with this power. On the other hand, they fear failure.
11. Destiny number 22 represents success at every junction of life. People with this destiny number usually build their own castle and can realize their dreams into reality. They neither depend on others nor believe in the customs of their society. They have good intuition power. They lack leadership and may feel mental pressure in the beginning. They utilize their talent in achieving their self-goals at any cost.

12. People with destiny number 33 have qualities that are a mixture of qualities of people with destiny number 11 and 22. Also, we may see some special traits as well, such as utilizing one's talent for the betterment of mankind.

Lo Shu Grid

Lo Shu Grid originated in China around 4000 years ago. As per the legends, the emperor at that time saw an unusual grid on the back of a turtle originating from the yellow river. The Lo Shu is a legacy of ancient Chinese traditions.

In the periphery of the Lo Shu pattern, the odd and even numbers are present alternatively. Firstly, the five odd numbers form a cross in the centre of the square, and secondly, the four even numbers are present at the four corners. The sums in each of the three rows, in each of the three columns, and in both the diagonals are all equal to 15. Since five is in the centre cell, the sum of any two other cells on either side of the 5 is 10.

Below are the qualities and rulership of the squares in the Lo Shu

There are many basic elements in Lo Shu Grid that help to understand a person better. The below diagram represents the placement of different elements corresponding to various numbers positioned in the Lo Shu Grid.

- 1 = North: Career; Season: Early Winter; Element: Water; Colours: Dark Blue/Black

- 2 = Southwest: Marriage, relationships, happiness; Season: Late Summer; Element: Earth; Colour: Pink
- 3 = East: Family, health; Season: Early Spring; Element: Wood; Colour: Green
- 4 = Southeast: Wealth and prosperity; Element: Wood; Colours: Purple, Gold
- 5 = Centre: Strength and stability; No season; Element: Earth; Colours: Yellow, Earth Tones
- 6 = Northwest: Helpful people, spirituality, foreign travel; Season: Late Fall; Element: Metal; Colours: Grey, mauve
- 7 = West: Creativity and children; Season: Early Fall; Element: Metal; Colours: White, bright pastels
- 8 = Northeast: Education and knowledge; Season: Late Winter; Element: Earth; Colours: Blue, blue-green
- 9 = South: Reputation and Fame; Season: Early Summer; Element: Fire; Colour: Red
- Wood – It is related to growth of a person with respect to business, intellect, health, and personal life. People without number 4 and 3 may find it difficult to grow in their lives.
- Fire – It denotes energy of a person.

- Earth – It represents stability of one's life.
- Silver Metal – It indicates spirituality.
- Gold Metal – People with number 8 are usually financially strong and helping hand for the society.
- People who have 2 or 6 or both have skills to build relationships. Married couple who doesn't has either of these number may find it hard to maintain the compatibility.
- Married couple who doesn't has number 3 in the grid, may find it difficult to have child.
- If a person doesn't has 3, 5, or 7, would be usually emotionless. Even in case of personal emergencies, these people may prioritize non-essential tasks on hand.
- People who have number 6 in their grid, they may be extra careful. Their access care may also hinder child's growth.

How to use the Lo Shu

One may make Lo Shu Grid for a person by using date of birth, calculating personality number, and destiny number. Finally, all the numbers are placed in Lo Shu Grid.

For example, Lo Shu Grid of a person with date of birth 08-01-1992 will be :-

1. Numbers in the date of birth – 8, 1, 1, 9, 9, 2
2. Personality number – 8
3. Destiny number – $8+1+1+9+9+2 = 40 = 4$

4	99	2

Once Lo Shu Grid is ready, one may look for rows which are present, rows which are missing, missing numbers, presence of multiple numbers and more to understand a person's life better and make predictions. All parameters will be discussed in this chapter.

Lo Shu Grid Rows

1. 1st Row – This row represents Mental Plane. A person who has this row completed would usually be a genius. Even if only two grids are filled, and one is empty in this row, the person would still be intelligent and shall excel at educational training. In case this row is missing, a person may easily get into bad habits such as gambling.

2. 2nd Row – This row represents Emotional Plane. A person who has this row completed would be very emotional. Also, when the row is missing, a person may be fearful and prone to get sick easily.

8	1	6

3. 3rd row – This row represents Practical Plane. A person with all grids filled in this row would have very practical approach towards life.

8	1	6

4. 4th row – This row represents Thought Plane. Such people have profound thinking abilities and usually excel at extempore.

Impact of missing numbers

Here we try to understand the impact of missing number in one's Lo Shu Grid.

1. If a person has number 1 missing, then person will find it difficult to establish his own identity. The person would be always willing to help others but will hesitate to take decisions.
2. A person may not have good intuition power if number 2 is missing. The person may ignore the details and face challenges in major projects or aspects of life. The person may never agree to own mistakes but may try to do the blame game. The person may not afford luxury life and may not have his own house as well.

5. The person may find obstacles while trying to achieve the goals or targets due to missing 5 number in the grid. Also, the person may be prone to get sick easily. The person's Graha will be unbalanced causing many issue. The person may be prone to prolonged sickness.
6. People with number 6 missing in the grid may face issue in their married life and relationships with the family. These people may also be careless towards the children. These people may not have a luxurious life.
7. If number 7 is missing in the grid, people may not find much interest in spiritual knowledge and spirituality. These people may not very organized and may need a push to get things done. These people may find obstacles in their path constantly.
8. People with number 8 missing may not be good at numbers and finance. These people may do blind trust easily and may act without thinking. These people may not own a property. Also, there may be raids by government authorities such as income tax department.
9. People with number 9 missing may not always respect others. These people may have an uncalm mind.

The missing elements can be emphasized by using corresponding colours in home decor, clothing, and jewellery choices. If, for example, number four is missing in the birth date, the four square in the Lo Shu will be under-weighted. There could be a number of remedies, including wearing purple or placing purple objects in the far left corner of the office, rooms, and home. Since the element related to the missing number 4 is Wood, one may place a healthy plant to keep the Lo Shu in balance.

Personal and space remedies for missing elements and directions:-

1. The Southwest square is the earth element, and the colour is pink. This section has to do with love and relationships, so placing paired objects here can help. Rose quartz can be placed, and pink stones can be worn to balance the Lo Shu.
2. This Northern square is the water element. Balance the element by adding a water feature for example an aquarium, or an image of flowing water.
3. The green sector is East and is related to the wood element. If additional support is needed, use green plants and wooden objects. Wearing green and carrying a wooden pen are also recommended.
4. The Southeast, coloured purple, is also wood, but use purple here. Purple live or silk flowers, amethyst crystals, or fabrics can help balance the chi here as well as wearing purple clothing and amethyst jewellery.

5. This is the centre — the earth. Traditionally, images of mountains without water are used, and wearing crystals in any form or shape is recommended. Also, crystal chandeliers or balls are suggested.
6. The Northwest is occupied by the metal element — enhancing that chi with metal in some form is suggested, particularly gold-coloured metals. Wearing gold is recommended, as well as hanging a gold-toned metal windchime with six rods or pipes.
7. This Western sector is also metal but relates more to silver colours. Wear a silver watch or chain, and install a silver-toned wind chime with seven rods or tubes.
8. The Northeast is occupied by the earth element. The colour is blue, and crystals are used to balance chi here, in the form of jewellery or decor.
9. The South is the fire element. Wearing red, putting a red light bulb in any fixtures in this section, or installing a wood-burning or gas fireplace are all possible remedies.

Kua Number

Kua number helps to know the direction one needs to be in so as to have a favourable impact on one's life. In the case of a Male, in order to calculate the Kua number, we subtract the addition of "year of birth" from 11, and in the case of a female, we add the addition of “year of birth.”

For example; date of birth of Suresh is 08-12-1987, then the Kua number would be $11 - (1+9+8+7) = 11 - 7 = 4$

Another example can be, date of birth of Neha is 08-12-1987. In that case, the Kua number will be $4 + (1+9+8+7) = 4 + 7 = 2$

Post calculating the Kua number; one needs to take a look at the corresponding direction as per Lo Shu Grid as below.

		South
South - East	4 Wood	9 Fire	2 Heavy Earth	South - West
East	3 Wood	5 Middle Earth	7 Silver Metal	West
North - East	8 Low Earth	1 Water	6 Gold Metal	North - West
		North

From the above exercise, we may conclude that South East direction would be favourable for Suresh and South West would be favourable for Neha respectively.

Personal Year

Personal Year tells us that how a specific year may unfold for the person. Personal year is calculated by adding “date of birth,” “month of birth,” and “current year.”

For example, if Arun’s date of birth is 10-10-2000, then his personal year number starting from 10-10-2020 would be calculated as $10+10+2020 = 2040 = 6$. The personal year number is valid for one year from the birthday in the current year. Hence, the personal year number 6 will be valid for Arun from 10-10-2020 to 09-10-2021.

Personal Month

Personal Month indicates how a specific month will be for an individual. We may calculate the personal Month by adding “date of birth,” “month of birth * 2”, “year of birth,” and “current month.”

Let’s say if we want to calculate the personal month number of Dec’20 for Arun (whose date of birth is 10-10-2000), then it would be $10+10*2+2000+ 12 = 2042 = 8$. The personal month number 8 will be valid from 10-12-2020 to 09-01-2021.

Similarly we may create personal month number chart for Arun as following :-

10-01-2021 to 09-02-2021 = 6

10-02-2021 to 09-03-2021 = 7

10-03-2021 to 09-04-2021 = 8

Personal Date

Personal Date indicates how a specific date will be for an individual. We may calculate the Personal Date by adding “date of birth,” “month of birth,” “current date,” “current month,” and “current year.”

Again, let’s say if we want to calculate the Personal Date number of 14-12-2020 for Arun (whose Date of birth is 10-10-2000), then it would be $10+10+14+12+2020 = 2066 = 5$

As per Harish Johari, in his book “Numerology with Tantra, Ayurveda, and Astrology”, numerology can really allow someone to look into the future. [7]

Numerology Karmic Number

In the cycle of continuous birth that we take, we experience a lot of good and bad times throughout our everyday life, live our happiest moments and share our deepest pain.

The day one is born says a ton regarding what one's identity is and where one would go in this life. As per numerology, it can also say a lot regarding what one's identity was. It is believed that the vibrations caused due to the important numbers direct what our identity was, are, and will turn into.

The numbers in one's date of birth reveal hidden meanings or lessons missed in past lives. It is believed that our souls are the backbone, but our bodies are reborn many times to continue to emerge. In every life, we learn new lessons, but we are not perfect. Karmic numbers demonstrate those zones of our life in which we are weak. These weaknesses can be overcome by working on them.

Karmic Lesson Numbers

Karmic Lesson Numbers show a portion of inherited weaknesses and specific areas needing development that have been passed on from one's past lives and need to be addressed to in this life. If one has a Karmic Lesson Number in one's numerology chart, that karmic lesson will continually present itself throughout your life until you've worked it out.

A few people have a number of Karmic Lesson Numbers, while some others have none. Nonetheless, in case one is blessed enough not to have any, it doesn't mean one will have a simple, trouble-free life. It just implies that most of one's difficulties will come through the other numbers in the chart.

An individual may have more than one Karmic Lesson Number. These numbers range from 1-9 and don't go higher than that. These numbers are associated with every letter of the English alphabet. The 'A-I' alphabets are related with numbers from 1 to 9, and with 'J' again, the number cycle begins from 1-9, and so on.

The Karmic Lesson numbers are found from the individual's name. Karmic Lesson numbers are those from 1 to 9 that are missing from our names. Each one of these missing numbers is related to a particular ability that an individual needs. A missing number shows the space that should be filled in this lifetime by mastering the necessary Karmic lesson. In this manner, karmic lesson numbers give the guide to life by encouraging us to discover our weaknesses and to work on overcoming them.

For example : Ashish Gupta = 118918 73721. The missing numbers are 4, 5, and 6. Hence, Ashish Gupta has 4, 5, and 6 as Karmic Lesson numbers.

Karmic Lesson Number 1

Karmic Lesson number 1 is offered to an individual who has the number 1 missing from their name. This individual has a weak will and is not strong. Therefore such an individual requires figuring out how to demonstrate more effort and determination.

These people need to begin settling on their own choices and be less needy, i.e., not rely too much on others. They will interact with numerous people with strong minds, and therefore one will either have to figure out how to act self-confidently and relentlessly or get suppressed. Only to teach these individuals to be more dynamic and assertive, this karmic lesson number is absent from the name. One needs to figure out how to maintain oneself among others and build self-confidence.

Learning not to be shy in front of others and being worried about what the other individual thinks should be avoided off by the person. The person should be more certain about the skills, decision-making, and rationality. The person should not procrastinate either. An individual with this number of karmic lessons requires to create confidence in oneself and be more deliberate.

Karmic Lesson Number 2

An individual with Karmic Lesson number 2 has the number missing in his/her name. This individual suffers from not being careful and keen. These individuals, therefore, need to figure out how to be diplomatic and manage various circumstances better. They need to realize when to restrain and when to be assertive, without wanting to be compensated or applauded. They additionally need to figure out how to be part of a team and to cooperate with others. Individuals with karmic lesson number 2 have a tendency to think for themselves. They need to let go of their anger and resentment in order to maintain a stable and healthy adult life.

These individuals should be more empathetic and sensitive to the feelings of others and understand their sentiments. They will generally end up in conditions where they should put to utilize their attention and patience, which will help them to connect working with others and support and provide them with help.

Karmic Lesson Number 3

Individuals who have the number 3 missing in their names have their karmic lesson number as 3. These individuals are prone to criticism. They can't deal with attention and discover some defect or something in their behaviour. These individuals set an incredible standard of excellence that they want to achieve.

They need to figure out how to lighten up and not criticize themselves too much. These individuals ought to figure out how to comprehend that their self-analysis should be controlled. So they should have more fun and just enjoy it. They also tend to be shy and modest, and introverted. Avoid off all the seriousness and be more light and idealistic towards life, and offer delight and joy to others.

These individuals are also do not pay much attention to emotional disorders or boredom. At the point when they are grown-up, they are seen as independent or arrogant and, in this manner, not taken seriously by others. They are capable, but life will also put difficulties that will require them to be more expressive. These individuals are usually artists who will work tirelessly to make progress. In the event that this number is available in any of the other core numbers of this individual even once, then the impact of the karmic lesson decreases.

Karmic Lesson Number 4

Individuals with the number 4 missing in their names have karmic lesson number 4. These individuals are often confused about their work. They think that it's hard to track down a good job that is satisfying. This may bring about a lack of concern towards work.

In their childhood, individuals with karmic lesson number 4 have generally had their chances defeated by financial problems. As they grow older and become more established, they become careless at work. They are irrational and unsystematic towards life that makes it hard for them to comprehend what they excel at.

Individuals with karmic lesson number 4 need to build up a disciplined methodology towards life. They should establish a framework for their life. They search for an answer for their issues outside of them instead of within. They start new jobs with the expectation that it will be energizing, yet when it ends up just working with no charm, they get some distance from it. They need to figure out how to focus and concentrate and be less pointless.

Karmic Lesson Number 5

Individuals with the number 5 missing in their name have karmic lesson number 5. At first glance, they seem to be self-centred. These individuals with karmic lesson number 5 are not adventurous and therefore should be more brave and daring. They should travel more often and expand their perspectives. This will give them the social and educational changes they need to embrace and acknowledge. Travelling will also require them to adjust to different conditions in their lives.

They are exceptionally stubborn and obstinate. They need to learn to have more confidence. Be more lively and develop by adjusting to changes. These individuals pull in great karma as they have the tendency of not being spotlight hungry and at times joyfully give the spotlight to others, realizing that those individuals are inferior and less gifted than them.

Additionally, they should not be too critical and have many opinions for others and let express their opinions. An individual lacking the number 5 in their name ought to figure out how to be modest and humble.

Karmic Lesson Number 6

Those people who have number 6 missing from their name have this number as their karmic lesson number. At first glance, individuals with this number appear to be social initiators. Individuals with this missing number don't care for responsibility. They do not like to commit. Marriage and obligation to other personal relationships are things that these individuals avoid. They ought to figure out how to be more open about their feelings.

These individuals feel lonely and separated but have no reason to feel that way. The explanation behind this sort of feeling is that they often form strong bonds with the person but remain constantly protected about it. They show no love towards them by hiding their actual sentiments and appearing cold. Therefore, they ought to figure out how to pursue a relationship and work on them seriously.

They need to get familiar with the value of friends and their worth. They ought to figure out how to give in a relationship and sometimes even sacrifice to keep their relationships intact.

Karmic Lesson Number 7

An individual who has number 7 missing in their name has karmic lesson number 7. These individuals can't deal with their own feelings. They may feel that they need to restrict their emotions in order to survive. Individuals having karmic lesson number 7 in their childhood often transform into introverts and detach themselves from the truth because of their emotional disturbance.

As they grow older, they could experience the ill effects of negative thoughts. They may show some sickness that is a consequence of their grief or anger. These individuals also don't have the capacity to master a particular talent. They have no intention of making themselves perfect in any discipline. They need to figure out how to be their own critics but without condemning themselves.

They ought to figure out how to not believe things in a flash and develop their own knowledge. A shallow understanding of all matters will just prevent them from understanding their own potential.

Karmic Lesson Number 8

The individuals who have number 8 missing in their names have karmic lesson number 8. These individuals are usually ready to do well in business and are therefore able to make good money. However, they also have to go through difficult times as they cannot manage their resources properly due to the absence of cautiousness.

These individuals are very independent and self-controlled and therefore don't prefer to be advised to get things done and thus have a problem with the individual who holds authority. This emerges from the complex behaviour that hinders them from understanding their limitations. In their adulthood, these individuals often focus on the pursuit of money and status and abandon valuable relationships. In this way, they may appear to be shallow and materialistic.

These individuals need to realize how to deal with their money. All things considered, these individuals will have enough cash but will consistently tend to spend it rather than to save any of it. This lesson directs an individual on knowing their limits, and furthermore, the need to restrict their expenses. They additionally need to figure out how to be organized.

Karmic Lesson Number 9

At the point when the number 9 is not in a person's name, the individual has the karmic lesson number 9. The number means obligation and wisdom. Individuals with this number have a mission or an objective to make the world a better place to live in. This number denotes service to humankind.

The number 9 stands for the 'earthly lesson,' which means "mercy." In this way, these individuals work towards the good of other people. They have defensive energy in their soul.

These individuals learn throughout their lives to be tolerant, charitable, liberal, and caring. This individual will show extraordinary strength of character, insight, affectability, and optimism. They tend to be homely and caring towards their family and friends. They need to figure out how to be less egocentric. There will be occasions when they need to make sacrifices for the benefit of others.

They need to see life more closely as they are here to serve mankind. They can possibly have the opportunity to impact their own destiny as well as of other people for good, but they don't understand it themselves. So sometimes, they refrain from advancing any social cause.

The Karmic Debt Numbers

These karmic numbers may play an important role and place different characteristics according to which we experience issues and problems in our lives.

Karmic Debt Number 13

Individuals with 13 as Karmic Debt Number usually have to work hard and make progress toward success. They may find it hard to deal with a given assignment as they may have to face a ton of obstacles and difficulties in doing so. This lead throughout the journey makes individuals surrender easily and get disappointed. They will find it difficult to hold on to the hard work and patience needed to achieve the assignment and make their way out of every difficulty. Hence, it is important for karmic number 13 individuals to fight till the end, not to give up and remain solid as that is the lone route towards success and their prosperity. They may want to give up their work and eliminate themselves from the burden of finishing it, but that may not be the final solution. It is essential to comprehend that efforts never go wasted, and consistent hard work will make them arrive at the top instead of being lazy and negative in their attitude.

The important thing to do is focus on what one needs to do and concentrate on it. Those who have the number 13 as their Karmic Debt Number in numerology lose their focus and engage themselves in performing multiple tasks where they do not do well in any task and rather divert their energy. Doing multitasking makes them incapable of finishing even one of them. This weakens them and creates self-doubt, which adversely hampers them. These individuals should concentrate on one thing at a time, and when that is finished, they should then continue towards another task. It is additionally recommended that these individuals should avoid taking any shortcuts that are aimed towards success or finishing any task as it might harm you and others around you. Instead, if they attempt to make a schedule, follow a plan and keep themselves coordinated, they will surely have the option to deal with these conditions and be successful. They simply need to make consistent efforts to accomplish this.

They can live their lives to the fullest and accomplish spiritual wisdom.

Karmic Debt Number 16

Individuals who have the number 16 as their Karmic Debt Number may have the opportunity to gain a lot of spiritual wisdom. It means the destruction of the old and the rise of the new, just like the cycle of enlightenment. It causes one to rediscover their own self by devastating what was before, that is, the ego or the Personality. When that occurs, one no longer remains what they were before, and the only thing that remains is the same body carrying the higher soul. The individuals who have 16 as their Karmic Debt Number may go through radical changes, which may be a turning point in their lives, an important event that can eventually make them mindful of their true self by first destroying the older one.

This change is a process where there is a lot of suffering, and one may need to experience a lot of difficulties to achieve this state of understanding, but when one arrives at this stage, they become delighted. There is the collapse of the ego, death of a character, and the destruction of oneself to make another, and without a doubt, this process is difficult where one may have to struggle a lot, experience difficult situations, and a ton of pain in different parts of life. But, this experience will altogether change their reality and make them more modest, lovable, and peaceable.

People who have their Karmic Debt Number as 16 will need to be cautious that they don't get obsessed with themselves and become selfish or egocentric. They may tend to look down on others and treat others as inferiors with all the wisdom and knowledge they have gathered. This may negatively affect them and others around them, which should be avoided at any cost. Hence, despite the fact that this is a tough path to travel, the Karmic Debt Number 16 is a critical one, which explains a continuous spiritual growth towards accomplishing greater consciousness and feeling unity with the source.

Karmic Debt Number 19

Every one of those with the Karmic Debt Number 19 is self-dependent and self-confident in nature. They will, in general, use their greatest potential to deal with problems and to solve problems, where most of the time they don't accept any assistance and attempt to solve problems all alone. They usually prefer to be all alone, and they don't favour taking any advice from individuals. They're determined to work alone and battle issues on their own. This is on the grounds that karmic number 19 individuals abstain from taking any assistance or help from anybody. They tend to follow more self-acknowledged principles.

Thus, there isn't a lot of space for advice or help in their cases.

But it is important for individuals with 19 as the Karmic Debt Number to be more adaptable and welcome the advice and help from others with great affection; else, it will limit their interaction with others and adversely affect them. Despite the fact that they don't appear to rely on anyone for anything, they ought to think about taking assistance from people and acknowledge the fact that people do commit errors and they need to help each other. This is a widespread mutual agreement that people create when they live in a society like ours. So ultimately, these people may realize that the concept of a 'one-man army' does not work.

Name Numerology

Now, discussing about name numerology, following the philosophy of Pythagoras, cycles appear everywhere, including the method by which one assign values to letters. Every letter of the alphabet is assigned a numeric value from 1 to 9. For letters A through I, one would number them based on where they fall in the alphabet—A is 1, B is 2, and so forth. Once one gets beyond I, one may begin to add the digits together to get a single number.

For example, with J, which is the tenth letter in the alphabet, one may add $1 + 0$, which gives a value of 1. Likewise, because K is the eleventh letter of the alphabet, one may add $1 + 1$ to get a value of 2. This pattern continues until one gets to the letter S; because S is the nineteenth letter of the alphabet, one would still have a double digit when one add the separate digits together ($1 + 9 = 10$). In cases like this, one would have to add the separate digits again to get the single digit—for S, it's $1 + 0 = 1$. The following table gives the complete set of values.

Pythagorean Letter-to-Number Table

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
A	B	C	D	E	F	G	H	I
J	K	L	M	N	O	P	Q	R
S	T	U	V	W	X	Y	Z

Let's try to understand it better with one example:

Neha Jain – 5, 5, 8, 1, 1, 1, 9, 5

	555
8	111

Since person doesn't has 3 and 4 in the Lo Shu Grid, the person may not be able to grow. The person should keep wood element on South East to balance her Graha and consider changing the name to Nehal Jain.

Nehal Jain – 5, 5, 8, 1, 3, 1, 1, 9, 5

Hence, name numerology is used to see if a person would have desirable balanced Graha and if not, name can be modified to add or replace some numbers in order to make the name of the person balanced from Graha perspective. While, analysing the Lo Shu Grid using name numerology, we need to look for missing rows, missing numbers, excess of numbers, combination of number, yuti, and hostile numbers.

For the same example, we may also try Astro Numero Grid :

		555

Also, sometimes, people doesn't know their date of birth. In those situations, name numerology can be used as well.

A to Z: The meaning of the first letter of the name

In numerology, each letter has a special meaning. As per Shirley Blackwell Lawrence sound of each letter sets up a vibration and this gives them a scientific cohesiveness [9]. The following are descriptions of the characteristics associated with each letter:

A: This is very powerful as the first letter of a name. These people are confident and ambitious. They are original and creative. These people tend to like their own ideas best. Sometimes it can also be an indicator of an impulsive individual. A as the first letter also indicates a natural leader who likes to make decision and take action.

B: B people are prone to sensitivity and must be careful to not take things personally. They would like to keep the peace. To be happy, B people need togetherness and companionship.

C: This is a lucky letter and indicates strong intuition. These people express themselves clearly and can be enthusiastic and entertaining. They are not afraid to express their feelings to others.

D: D people are strong and can be hard workers. Determined, grounded, and very practical, they don't waste time or money. These people have good systems in place to get things done quickly and efficiently. They can also handle deadlines and pressure.

E: This is the letter for activity, restlessness, or uncertainty. E people are powerful and have a strong desire for freedom. These people are versatile and clever, and are able to see many different sides of a situation.

F: F people are self-sacrificing and very responsible. They frequently thrive on helping others, even at their own expense. Because they are warm-hearted and caring, F people have to try not to let other people's problems drag them down.

G: G people are visionaries who have the analytical ability to see the details in the big picture. Often avid readers, they can be good teachers and are intellectually active. Reserved and refined, G people may need some time alone to charge their batteries.

H: Sometimes emotional yet able to listen to their own inner voice, H people are alert, aware, and watchful. They learn their lessons through experience but aren't easily discouraged from their plan. Even though they enjoy material things, for H people, money can come and go. They also like to spend time outdoors.

I: I people are intense and able to interpret conditions and events in an intelligent way. Because they feel deeply, I people are compassionate, generous, and loving; however, they sometimes find it difficult to overcome pride and personal feelings.

J: These people are Pro – Justice. Friendship is their forte, and J people make exceptional friends themselves. Possessing a sense of humour with solid leadership traits, they are sometimes better suited to giving directions than being directed.

K: These people have good intuition along with excellent memories and powers of concentration. Persistent and having strong likes and dislikes, they often go to extremes. The Master number associated with it, 11, is indicative of talent or literary ability.

L: Lively, vital, and powerful, the letter L indicates a heady, honest, and tolerant individual who's generous and kind-hearted. Social and capable of self-sacrifice, L people like their work to be useful and are capable of leadership.

M: A dedicated, high-energy worker who likes to see tasks to completion, M people fit well into structured environments as well. These people are usually very composed. These people may strive for a firm financial base to feel secure, are very loyal and like to help people in their social circle resolve problems.

N: N people are creative and original individuals who are able to think outside the box. They have a strong personality with original opinions. N people also tend to document their lives in written form, sometimes in journals or diaries. They thrive on change and seem to over- come obstacles with ease.

O: Self-contained, sensitive, and able to control their emotions, O people need to be careful not to appear self-centred to others. These people are happiest when there are boundaries, rules, and laws. They feel a sense of morality that makes them take the high ground and strive to do the right thing.

P: P people are intellectual with sound and deep knowledge. Though they can often be secretive, others generally have great first impressions of them. These people are well suited for professional and scientific pursuits.

Q: Q people can be good researchers and have very good reasoning skills, but they can become too deeply wedded to their own ideas. Q people speak their mind openly and are money magnets with the ability to be persuasive in business matters.

R: Energetic, exacting, and thorough, R people can be perfectionists to the point that those around them become annoyed by their behaviour. They possess strong powers of attraction and are popular with others.

S: These people can be very charming, with lots of warmth and devotion. Because they possess a kind nature, they are able to work well with others. Often original and artistic, they tend to have an intense life.

T: T people are attentive, thoughtful, and sometimes quiet; however, they can be assertive when pushed. These people are also charitable. They need to keep their feelings in check and not be too sensitive.

U: U people find expression in their fields of interest. They also tend to internalize their feelings and emotions. These people can think of their feet and commit wholeheartedly to projects. Pleasing and often entertaining, they are naturally attracted toward glamour.

V: These people are usually intuitive. They have vivid imaginations and therefore need to make sure they are able to separate fact from theory.

W: W people comprise many different experiences and are recognized as willing, spontaneous, outgoing, and versatile. Very charismatic and creative, they surround themselves with interesting people.

X: Thriving on information extracted from books and other sources, X people tend to have a photographic memory. These people have a deep love of family and feel a duty to make the world better. Often misunderstood, they can be moody and should be careful to avoid addiction.
